Lakeview Golf Tournament Proved Most Popular and Greatest Attended

Last Thursday, Friday Saturday, and Sunday were "golf days" in Hamlin. It was the Fourth Annual Invitation Tournament, and there were 52 entrants.

The preliminaries and every feature of the three days program proved popular and extremely interesting to those who are inclined to love golf.

The Herald man has never been hit right hard with a golf ball and the language of the "green" is not familiar to our ears, however, we did try to get a bit of information out of the sport pages of the larger daily papers and so far no one has made fun of what we gave out.

It seems that one J. T. Hammett, of Philpico, Texas, came off the links with the biggest share of the glory as far as being the best with the sticks.

Starting with the first flight, quarter finals—W. F. Johnson defeated Douglas Swift, 7 and 5; W. W. Milner, Hamlin, defeated H. V. Hodges, 7 and 6; Bob Estes, Abilene, defeated L. B. Pribble, Hamlin, 1 up in 19; A. D. Ensey, Hamlin, defeated L. B. Massey, Haskell, 3 and 2.

Second flight, semi-finals—M. Smith, Anson, defeated Buford Dean, Hamlin, 4 and 3; McCarty defeated C. E. Lowery, 1 up.

Championship consolation—Agnew, Ballinger, defeated M. Meadows, Alpine, 2 up; remaining semi-final match to be played Sunday.

First flight consolation—T. J. Hooser, defeated Jack Estes, Hamlin, 1 up; G. W. Turner defeated Coy Fielder, 5 and 4.

Second flight consolation—R. E. Edwards won from J. M. Brown, default; Creed Smith won from Jones, default. Edwards defeated Smith, 3 and 2, in the final.

Hammett won his semi-final contest with H. Tolar of Hamlin, 3-2, but Neville was harder pressed to eliminate Carl Young of Hamlin, whose play was the big surprise of the tourney, 3 and 2. Young, playing in his first tournament since taking up golf less than 18 months ago, upset H. G. Agnew of Ballinger and Johnson of Hamlin, but unsteadiness of the greens contributed to his downfall.

The championship consolation was won by H. G. Agnew, of Ballinger, who defeated Dr. P. A. Fowler of Hamlin, 4 and 3.

The first flight was won by W. W. Milner of Hamlin, over A. D. Ensey, also of Hamlin. It was a tightly contested round that went to 20 holes in a scheduled round of 18.

The first flight consolation went to T. J. Hooser, who defeated G. W. Turner of Hamlin, 3 and 2. McCarty defeated Smith of Anson, for the championship of the second flight.

In the final of the Hamlin golf tournament, J. T. Hammett, of Philpico, was winner of the championship flight Sunday afternoon.

It was Hammett all the way. It seemed that he couldn't make a mistake. J. W. Neville, of Coleman, playing a noble game but the odds and pressure were too great and he went down on the twenty-fifth by a count of 12 and 11.

MOVING TO ABILENE

Monday morning Hamlin lost one of its good families to Abilene. Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Gibson, who have a nice home between Central Avenue and Union Avenue on 3rd street, which will be for rent or sale. Mr. Gibson retains his lumber yard here and also the Allis-Chalmers implements. At Abilene he will operate the Allis-Chalmers agency as he has done for the past few months.

The Hamlin lumber yard is in charge of E. E. Kimbler and the Chalmers implements is under the direction of Buck Wilemon.

Mr. Gibson will keep a good eye on Hamlin—and maybe will hang around on our streets quite a lot yet.

LOCAL SHOWERS

HELP CROPS

Some of Hamlin's trade territory was benefitted Monday afternoon by rains varying from a mere sprinkle to a downpour.

Contrary to the old saying that Hitson gets rain last was reversed this time. In that community and north into Stonewall and across the northern part of Jones County a fair crop rain fell.

In Hamlin and eastward, not so heavy, yet enough to cool the air and settle the dust and in all do some good.

This Thursday morning is looking favorable for more rain—following some heavy thunder before day.

Raymond says fishing is not so good at Corpus, and far better in California.

JULY FOURTH TO BE QUIET HERE

What is a "Sane 4th?" If being quiet, if being at home, if resting and reading, radioing and recuperating count in making this "Fourth" a sane one in Hamlin—there is no doubt but that it will be "sane."

After all, is such a 4th not pretty good for any American community anywhere these hectic days?

While Hamlin rests, with but few business houses closing Monday and maybe some on Saturday, there is plenty evidence that some of our neighbors are having a "hot time"—flags, bunting, colors of red, white and blue galore, long hot parades, bands "a playing," and a lot of "shoot 'em up" and barbecue, etc.,—speeches, and spiels—maybe after all the town not having so much is just as well off and maybe, physically and perhaps morally better by being quiet.

Anyway if one cares to go places, even Thursday, Friday, Saturday—and Sunday the 4th, there is plenty of places not far away.

Happiness and success to each and every patriotic Hamlin citizen whether they have a rollicking rowdy round or recline and read records of great men in their struggle for our Republic.

MR. T. B. NALL MARRIES A M'CAULLEY GIRL

The ceremony was said by the Rev. D. G. Reid of the Baptist Church in Roby.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Jones of the McCauley community. She attended both the McCauley and Hamlin high schools.

The couple will make their home on a farm.

DO YOU WANT

A HAMLIN BAND

How many Hamlin residents saw the Stamford American Legion Band parade and heard the concert they gave here Tuesday night?

Hamlin people can have a peppy band as good or better than this in less than six months time, if they wish. Mr. C. M. Watson, the director of the Stamford Band and Mr. L. E. Baize of Tuxedo, are going to organize a Hamlin band.

Mr. Watson's Stamford's American Legion Band was organized in February and is now enjoying all band pleasures and he intends to have a full band going strong in Hamlin by fall.

Every one in Hamlin or community, who is interested in a Hamlin band or would like to be in it, ought to be present Tuesday night, July 6, at eight o'clock at the Hamlin High School Auditorium and get going with the band. Don't let other towns get ahead of Hamlin!

MRS. R. D. MOORE, SR. CLAIMED BY DEATH

Death took from our community one of Hamlin's pioneer citizens, very unexpectedly last Friday, June 25, when Mrs. R. D. Moore passed away, at the Hamlin Hospital.

Most acquaintances of Mrs. Moore knew she had not been in the best of health and had gone to the hospital for treatment, but few, not even her closest loved ones realized she was so near death's door. The end came at 2:45 P. M. June 25.

The life sketch of Mrs. Moore is a very interesting one. She lived to be 77 years, 4 months and 1 day of age. She was born in the state of Ohio, February 24, 1859. Her maiden name was Henrietta Carpenter. At the age of 11 years he parents moved to Missouri where the family resided for a few years, and during the time, her father lost heavily in a bank failure that carried his holdings away. After about two years the family moved to Arkansas, and while she was in her early teens they settled in McLennan County, Texas.

Mrs. Moore became the wife of R. D. Moore in 1879, and they made their home at Bruceville, where their five children were born. All of the children survive: Mrs. T. F. Mayfield, of Bruceville, Fred B. Moore of Hamlin Mrs. C. S. Carver of Hillsboro, R. D. (Dick) Moore, Jr., of Hamlin and Mrs. Louie Hardy of Stamford.

In early days a relative of R. D. Moore, Sr. acquired a large body of land located in Jones and Fisher Counties, and this holding brought the Moore family to West Texas. They came to Hamlin in 1907, but several years before this R. D. Moore had donated to the Orient Townsite Co. the original site for what is now the thriving little city of Hamlin. Since before the beginning of this city, the Moore family figured prominently in its foundation and development. Besides the original townsite, several Moore Additions have been created as time passed.

Mrs. Moore and her husband were among the first citizens to erect good homes in this city—one of the famous stately two-story homes, that to this day graces our city on Union Avenue, was built by Mrs. Moore shortly after the death of her husband, which occurred in 1909.

Mrs. Moore always took an especial interest in Hamlin's progress.

She was a devoted Christian character, being one of the leading members of the Church of Christ. She gave liberally of her means for her church work. In recent years, Mrs. Moore became unable to get about as she formerly did, and to be near her church, she purchased lots almost directly across the street from the building and there again erected on of the attractive and most substantial homes in the city. She did not build just for herself, but for her loved ones. Often when her neighbors would ask her why she was building so many rooms, she would remark that she had as many children now as she ever had and she wanted room for them when they came home. She was a mother of strong character and one who leaves her influence to live on and on.

Funeral service was conducted at the Church of Christ on Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock. The local minister, Woodie Holden, and Evangelist Horace Busby of Fort Worth, had charge. Their tribute of love and appreciation for one of their most useful members was in keeping with all the many noble traits of her long life. Bountiful floral offerings bore evidence of love and esteem from near friends and neighbors and also from the more distant ones.

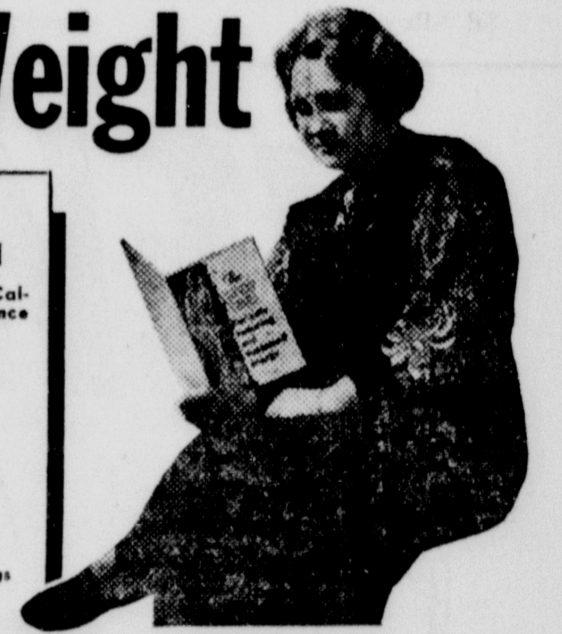

Active pallbearers were Bruce Proctor, Curtis Martin, W. L. Fletcher, Jr., W. T. Cherry, Seth Lawrence of Anson, and Mr. Hall from Stamford.

The body was in charge of the Barrow Company and following the funeral service in Hamlin the journey to the old home at Bruceville was started. Final rites were held at the home of the daughter, Mrs. T. F. Mayfield at Bruceville, on Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Minister Holden directed the service. Three of the active pallbearers from Hamlin were present, Messrs. Curtis Martin, Bruce Proctor and W. L. Fletcher, Jr. Former friends and neighbors assisted. A great number of friends and acquaintances in the Bruceville community were present and again the many floral offerings gave expression of esteem and also sorrow.

The body was placed to rest in the Bruceville Cemetery by the side of the husband, under the direction of the Barrow Co.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bury, and little son, Don, were called to Austin, Tuesday because of the illness of Mrs. Bury's mother.

MRS. F. C. TAYLOR DIED

SATURDAY MORNING, 11:45

Mrs. F. C. Taylor passed away at her home on South Jackson and 9th Street, Saturday morning, June 26, after several years of ill health.

Mrs. Taylor's maiden name was Raneta May Riley, born Sept. 15, 1884, and was, at the time of her death, 52 years, 9 months and 11 days of age. She was born in Comanche, Texas.

The deceased was married to F. C. Taylor on Sept. 9, 1906, at Eastland, Texas. To this union there were seven children, four of whom survive. They are Mrs. H. E. Wolting, El Campo, Texas, F. C. Jr., Miss Louella and John Max, all of Hamlin. All of the surviving children were at the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor came to Hamlin in April, 1928.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Today the business outlook is curiously mixed. On the unfavorable side, the strike situation grows steadily more tense, even as individual strikes are growing more bloody and embittered, and troubles such as those now being experienced by the independent steel companies may be felt in other important industries before the year's end. On top of this, Congress is considering or about to consider a number of legislative proposals—ranging all the way from a new and more stringent "NRA" to creation of a gigantic, Federally owned super-power system—which are anathema to all business leaders. And there is a good chance that taxes will be materially increased for 1938.

Even so, the strength of the recovery movement—expressed in rising incomes, and an almost insatiable public desire for commodities of all kinds—is so great that practically all of the established forecasting services are bullish. Thus, in recent weeks, the Alexander Hamilton service has said, "The world is in the boom phase of the business cycle." Babson believes that "gains over a year ago should continue to be well maintained." Brookmire anticipates that "renewed recovery should follow the summer lull." Colonel Ayres sees "no reason to fear that any serious business recession is impending." Gibson says, "No major decline is in prospect for the summer months." Poor's foresees some recession during the near term," but nothing severe. Summing up opinion, United Business Service observes that "present indications point to a moderate let down in activity over the next few months, al-

HOUSEWIFE CONTEST

A growing "suspicion" that West Texas women resent being called "housewives" prompts a radio contest to find a new name for the home-maker, Mac Brundage, local manager for the West Texas Utilities Company, announced yesterday. Prizes valued at approximately $500 will be awarded in the contest, the two stations Monday morning at 9:15 o'clock in Abilene and 9:30 o'clock in San Angelo.

The contest will begin July 5, lasting six weeks. It will be conducted over Radio Stations KGGK, San Angelo, and KRBC, Abilene, and will be supplemented by newspaper advertising in their broadcasting radius. Details of the contest, Mac Brundage said, will be given on the company's woman's news programs over 9:15 o'clock in Abilene and 9:30 o'clock in San Angelo.

Women will be invited to invent a substitute name for "housewife" and explain why they prefer that particular name in a 100-word letter, it was learned. Second prize will be choice of electric dishwasher or washing machine, and third prize will be a food mixer. The next 10 best names will each win their author a small electric appliance.

though business in the aggregate should hold above a year ago."

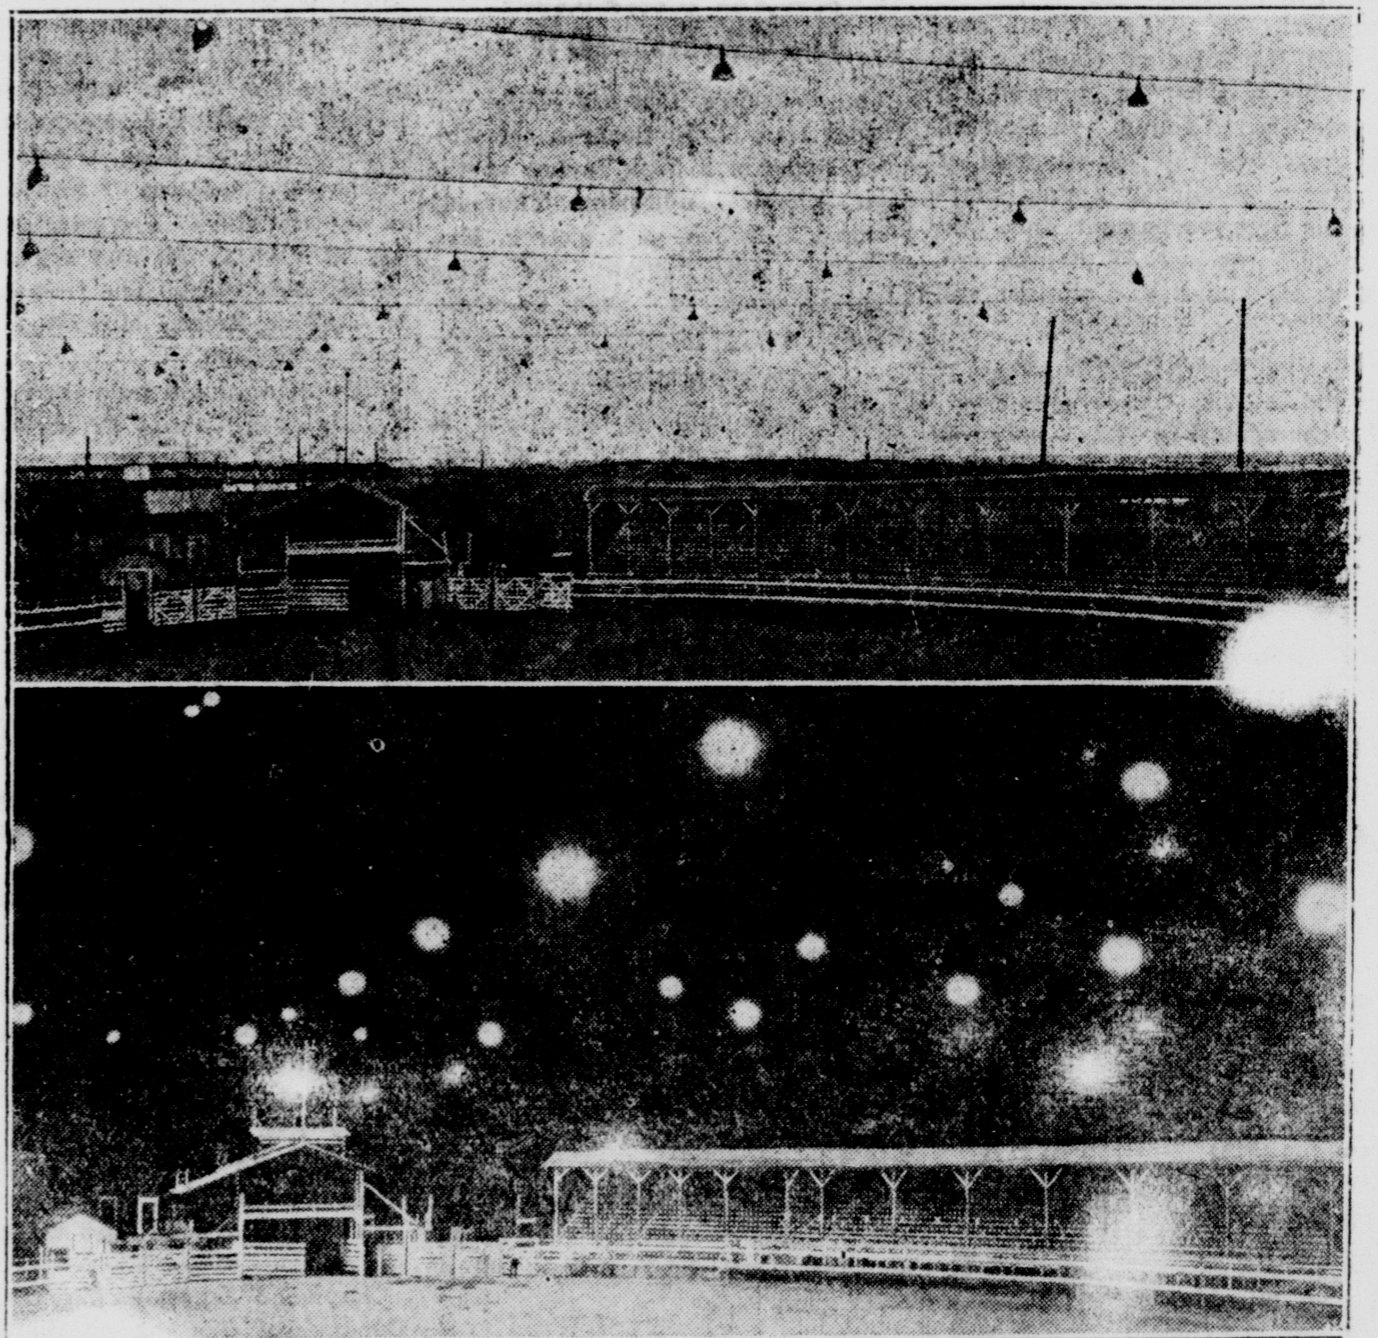

So far as specific elements in the industrial picture are concerned, the commentators agree fairly well. Most of them think that bond prices will be either stabilized at current levels, or may go down slightly due to higher interest rates. Stocks are definitely irregular, with the recent trend downward, but neither material advances nor recessions are anticipated. There will be little variance in commodity prices during the next few months, with a possible rise coming in the fall. Summer trade in all lines, seasonal factors considered, will be good, and better than in 1936. Foreign trade should start upward, but it will be a long time before pre-depression levels are reached again. A war in Europe would revolutionize the outlook in this field, but few believe that any of the major powers are sufficiently confident to risk a war as yet—they are simply bluffing and stalling.

For most industries, the earnings outlook is good—though nowhere as good as the production outlook. Some of the largest industries—of which the railroads are a case in point—are doing a greatly increased volume of business with extremely small increases in earnings, due to higher taxes, higher wages, etc. However, practically all industry has emerged from the "deficit period" and is at least back in the black ink.

COWBOYS TO "DO STUFF" UNDER BRIGHT LIGHTS

Eight times as much light as in previous years will beam upon rodeo performers in the arena of the Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford July 1-2-3. Above is a daylight view of the arena in contrast to the lighted scene by night (below) when cowboys will "do their stuff" under 26 overhead light units of 1,500 watts each—just installed by the West Texas Utilities Company. Eighteen lighting units of 15,000 watts each light up the Re-union grounds.

The vanguard of cowboys, ranchmen, chuck wagons, concessionaires and tenderfeet arrived in Stamford today (Wednesday) in advance of the opening Thursday of the eighth annual round-up of the Texas Cowboy Reunion.

Early arrivals found everything in readiness for entertaining the greatest crowd in the town's history—a crowd which from all indication will exceed the attendance record of 15,000 established last year. The expenditure during the past few months of over $10,000 for improvements at the Reunion grounds will add to the convenience of visitors. The new lighting system at the rodeo arena, claimed to be second only to that of Madison Square Garden, and the new exhibit building and dance pavilion have been finished along with numerous other lesser changes.

Special features of the opening day, Thursday, include the opening meeting of the Texas Cowboy Reunion Association, the oldtime cowboys' organization with 1400 members at 10:00 A. M., preliminary judging of the cowgirl sponsors from the various cities and the annual sponsors' ball at 10:00 P. M.

Friday, the second day, will be featured by the grand parade, headed by Governors Allred of Texas and Tingley of New Mexico and Bailey of Arkansas, along with Paul White, famous orchestra director. The parade each year is the most spectacular feature of the entire program.

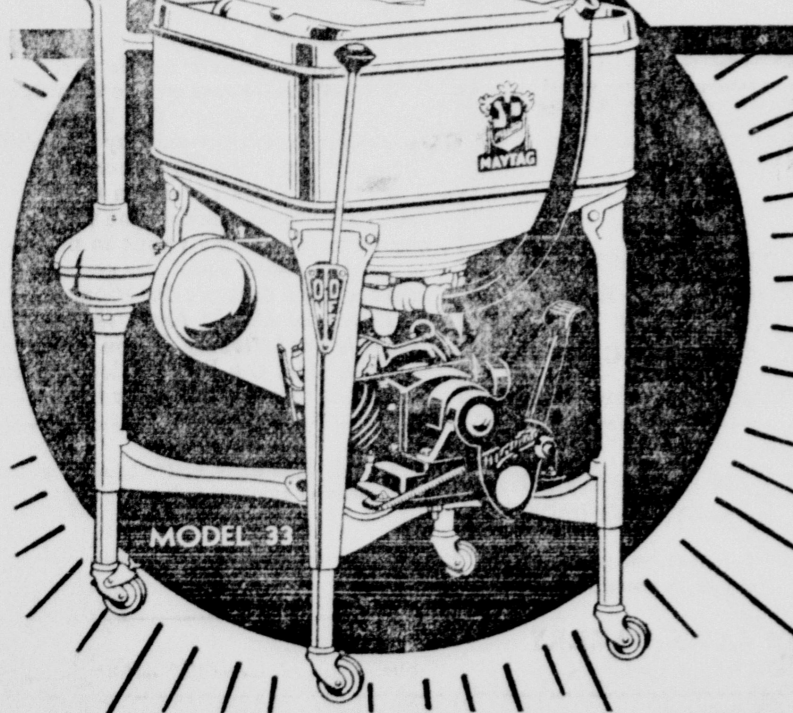

The old fiddlers' contest, one of the biggest free attractions of the Reunion, and the award of the championship prizes in the various contests will feature the closing day, Saturday.

Three performances of the Reunion's cowboy rodeo will be held each day, starting at 8:00 A. M., 2:00 P. M. and 8:00 P. M. Contests include calf-roping, wild-cow milking, bronc and steer riding. The cutting-horse contest, unique with the Stamford rodeo, will be held the second day and the oldtime cowboys' calf roping contest will be held Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. A junior cowboy contest is a new feature of this year's roundup.

Oldtime square dances will be held at the cowboys' bunkhouse each night and modern dances will be in progress at the new pavilion at the same time.

Members of the oldtime cowboys' organization who have paid their annual dues will be guests of the Reunion management. Their badges will admit them to all rodeo performances and to the square dances. They will be guests at the chuck wagon each day at noon.

NEW DEAL FOR RAILROADS

(Editorial: Globe-Democrat, St. Louis, Mo., June 3).

Matthew S. Sloan, chairman of the board and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines, asked a fair question the other day in an address here before the Traffic Club. He inquired why the public is apathetic toward the future of the railroads which are so vital to our economic life that "our very civilization would crack up overnight" if they should cease to operate. He stated the railroads' problem succinctly — "whether service is to be rendered under private ownership along progressive, efficient and low cost lines, or whether the rail lines shall be forced into bankruptcy and, finally, into government ownership — and politics." If the problem is to be met to permit the roads to continue under private ownership, a new federal transportation policy is mandatory.

"What the roads seek," said Mr. Sloan, who admits optimism over the prospect despite the experiences of the past years, "is a federal policy that will stop piling burdens onto the railroads, and a policy that will equally regulate and tax our competitors—all to the end that rates may be stabilized and reasonably lowered for the public's good." We will agree with him that "viewed in the light of present proposals and what has happened over a long period of years—the constant grinding of the railroads between the upper millstone of strict, burdensome and costly regulation and the lower millstone of unregulated and subsidized competition—one must have great faith in the fair-mindedness and in the sound-mindedness of the public to look with confidence to the adoption of such a policy."

Perhaps what Mr. Sloan means is that the public has taken railroads and the conveniences they afford too much for granted. We have stood by while these veterans in the transportation field have been beset by competitors which, as he says, are too frequently subsidized and too freely relieved of harrying restrictions, such as government regulations. The railroads have seen for years an "alarming shrinkage in the margin between gross operating revenues and expenses." In the face of hurtful competition they have "performed miracles in promoting efficiency and in reducing unit costs of operation." Last year for instance, when the revenues of the nation's railways increased $600,000,000 over those of 1935, more than $321,000,000 was spent by these roads in improvement of their plants, despite the many lean years of previous deficit. During the past 20 years there has been an increase of approximately 45 per cent in railroad property investment, and an increase of only 14 per cent in railroad capitalization.

During the same period annual dividend disbursements declined about $180,000,000 and, as Mr. Sloan sadly remarked, railroad taxes were increased by $162,000,000.

The "Katy" president stated some pertinent facts which the public should heed. Railroads are an indispensable utility, yet our government has piled on taxes and increased onerous regulations until the wonder is the roads have survived. Our lamentable venture into government operation of roads points to the fallacy of that policy. In the interest of fair play, we must agree with Mr. Sloan that there should be a change in federal policy, made possible by public demand.

"The railroad problem is the public's problem," he said, "because the public through its various law-making and regulatory bodies is responsible for the fact that the railroads are not, as are other industries, able to regulate expenses to income. And it is the public's problem because the public must pay the bill."

Buffalo Trackers

THE buffalo have long since vanished from east of the Mississippi but the state of Indiana has three official "buffalo trackers." They are George R. Wilson of Indianapolis, John Chappell of Petersburg and Lew O'Bannon of Corydon, appointed by the governor of the Hoosier state, complying with an act to search for "the buffalo trace" leading from the Ohio to the Wabash so that the trail may become a state memorial.

The law says that the buffaloes, in their periodic migrations from the Ohio to the Wabash, made a trace that was used by Indians, explorers and pioneers and it "should be preserved as a lasting memorial to the daring and notable achievements of the pioneer settlers of the state." Messrs. Wilson, Chappell and O'Bannon have the power to administer oaths and compel the attendance of witnesses, even though it is doubtful if anyone who saw the movements of the buffalo is alive today.

Anyway, the commissioners are to use any means in their power to determine the exact route of the vanished herds and make a report to the governor, accompanied by maps and drawings. The trace will then be taken over by the highway department and Indiana's "buffalo trackers," the only officials of the kind in the country, will follow their ghostly game into oblivion.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

WOODIE HOLDEN, Minister.

The revival meeting with the McCaulley church of Christ is continuing in a very interesting way. Attendance is increasing each evening. We invite you to come every time that you can. Service is held each evening at 8:30. The meeting will continue till Sunday week, July 11.

Due to the McCaulley meeting the evening service of the Hamlin congregation will be held at seven-fifteen instead of the usual time. Remember that change in time and come. You may attend two services Sunday evening. The early service at the church of Christ will be completed in plenty of time for you to go elsewhere.

The subjects for discussion Sunday are these: "Judas, the Man of Trust," Sunday morning, "Heaven and the Pathway to It" Sunday evening at seven-fifteen.

You are always welcome at the church of Christ. Come Sunday.

Mrs. W. E. Bounds, who has been seriously ill in her home in Fort Worth for several months is much improved, and was able to come this week to the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. C. Ferguson, south of Hamlin where she is convalescing. Mrs. Bounds was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Janie Hooper, also of Fort Worth.

KNOW TEXAS

By F. L. McDONALD, T. S. C. W. NEWS BUREAU, DENTON

DENTON, Texas.—Most cosmopolitan of all Texas cities is San Antonio, with its rich blend of the old and the new, and its mixed populations of Spanish, German and other nationalities. Numerous fiestas and patriotic celebrations have helped win for it the name, "Playground of Texas."

North of the city are the cluster of German towns that have always been a delight to tourists. Freshly scrubbed New Braunfels, the famous old town founded by an immigrant German prince is situated on the banks of the Comal river. Camping spots around these springs can hardly be surpassed in beauty and comfort.

Kerrville is also a favorite retreat for those who crave the outdoor life, and many kinds of commercial camps are located near there. After passing through another old German town, Fredericksburg, the traveler is ready to enter Austin.

High spots of Austin which the tourist cannot afford to miss are the State Capitol, the great university, various historical points and the ice-cold springs. Turning north again, one finds a good highway to Waco, where fishermen head to Lake Waco, picnickers take in Cameron Park and scholars go to Baylor University.

From this central section the way is clear to Dallas and Fort Worth, which are embarking on their second year as summer entertainment centers. At Dallas Panamania held forth in the form of the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition, and at Fort Worth Billy Rose is managing a "bigger and better" Frontier Fiesta.

AN IDEAL FAMILY MAN

What is an ideal family man? Three men at the Oregon State College attempted an answer. Each confessing that his conclusions were based on his own family experience with one wife and two children, they recently conducted a panel discussion and presented as a result these specifications:—

1. The ideal family man saves some of his time for his family—quality time whether it is long in quantity or not.
2. He is unselfish enough to respect the wishes of the rest of the family, whether on a drive or in selection of a radio program.
3. He is even-tempered enough that he at least refrains from getting "mad" at the same time his wife does.
4. He keeps up with the world both as to current events and modern thought.
5. And—a most important characteristic—he has a sense of humor.—The Progressive Farmer.

LIVING UP TO MY AD

Giving you tops in Mileage

I know the trouble. So many oil ads yell mileage, that you can't tell one way or another. I don't want my own ads to be in that class, so I'd like you to know all I'm staking, when I personally recommend Conoco Germ Processed oil to you. In my case, you see, I'm the owner of my business. And there's nothing makes repeat customers for me like my Germ Processed oil... or I ought to say, the long mileage it gives you. The patent Germ Process makes this oil get fastened real firm to the bearings and cylinders and other parts—as if they'd been built with an actual plating of oil that can't separate... can't thin out and burn right up. Neither is it going to run down every time you stop. Then you can't make any "dry starts" with Oil-Plating, and right there is where engineers say you will end a good half of all the wear you used to get in Summer. The less wear, the less oil your engine eats. You'll get on to this yourself, from your cool quiet Oil-Plated engine. And that's how I make another good friend for Conoco Germ Processed oil.

A friend of mine has been planning to build a house in the San Francisco Bay district. Rising costs have about discouraged him. He writes:

"The main trouble today is that there are not the men available to build, and houses are standing around half finished, that are just worked on at intervals. The tile people just told me they have ten jobs for two men and they have jumped their wages from $12 to $14 a day."

That is a rather interesting story in a country where billions of dollars are being spent for so-called relief due to unemployment.

FOR A CONTENTED LIFE

Goethe's nine requisites for contented living are here given in brief:

Health enough to make work a pleasure.

Wealth enough to support your needs.

Strength to battle with difficulties and overcome them.

Grace enough to confess your sins and forsake them.

Patience enough to toil until some good is accomplished.

Charity enough to see some good in your neighbor.

Love enough to make real the things of God.

Hope enough to remove all anxious fears concerning the future.

WOMEN WHO POISON THEMSELVES

Every time he goes out of the house she calls after him spitefully:
"All right, go to your Jane!"

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

IF A bottle of slow poison stood in the medicine closet of her home, no woman would go there hourly and take a spoonful of it.

But there is another kind of poison, more dreadful in its effects, that thousands of women keep on tap and take regularly. It is the poison called jealousy. And jealousy and insanity are first cousins.

One woman I knew was not particularly fond of her husband until another woman wanted him. Then she writhed, whispered, foamed with all the symptoms of a disordered mind. She set traps for him, she tried to bribe his office nurse to spy on him, she bored every one she knew with hysterical outbursts of rage. When the other woman was mentioned she became actually sinister; she knew it for a fact that Marian cheated at cards, she knew it for a fact that Marian wasn't straight, she knew everything disagreeable that could be imagined about Marian. Some one happened to speak of Marian's child.

"Ha, she's defective, you know!" said the discarded wife, with a laugh. "The poor little thing'll never be normal!" The husband was mentioned. "I hear John's wearing corsets and having his face lifted," the jealous wife screamed rather than said, with peals of laughter.

And this was a quiet, apparently pleasant woman, who never before had shown any signs of the volcano that was ready to burst forth at the first touch of jealousy.

In the old days, when home and church influences took care of children's morals, girls—and jealousy is rather a feminine characteristic,—girls grew up conscious that it was a pitfall, and determined to fight it.

"Look out, my girls," writes the father in "Little Women," from a Civil War camp, "I want each one of you to fight her bosom enemy."

It's an old-fashioned phrase; our children wouldn't know what we were talking about if we reminded them to fight their bosom enemies; no one ever has told them that within each one of us lie the powers that can destroy our very souls.

Sex jealousy is perhaps the most poignantly painful and destructive of all; it is the only sort of jealousy men ever seem to feel. It is the tragedy of its agonies that it destroys in those who give away to it all natural attractiveness.

It is curable. A jealous woman may emerge from this fiery trial all the stronger and finer for it, but very few mothers seriously analyze their children's characters in these days, and try to strengthen what is good in them, and weed out what is bad, so that many wives come to the test completely unfitted for what is a real spiritual crisis.

Ruth, for example, is thirty-three. She was married nine years ago and has two boys, both in school. She was always a trifle heavy, and she has settled now into something like stockiness; she was always somewhat unimaginative, and she is managing this affair with a complete lack of imagination.

Walter has fallen in love with the woman in his office, Jane Deane. Jane is twenty-eight, divorced, and extremely plain at first view. But hers is one of those faces that presently seem almost beautiful, in spite of a homely big mouth, prominent teeth, straight dark hair, sallow skin. Jane has magnificent gray black-lashed eyes, a lovely voice, and a delightful disposition.

Ruth discovered the affair six months ago; she immediately collapsed. She put up no fight. She lay for days weeping on her bed; her face grew dark with anger and swollen with tears; she would not come to meals. To her little boys she said between sobs that Daddy didn't love them any more; he was in love with Mrs. Deane; he was going away to leave them. Once an extremely pretty woman, Ruth lost all semblance of good looks; she stopped golf; she went nowhere; she put on seventeen pounds.

She stubbornly refuses Walter a divorce, and she continues to make his life wretched at home. Every time he goes out of the house she calls after him spitefully: "All right, go to your Jane!" In short, she has taken the path best calculated to wreck what might be salvaged in their marriage, and to make Walter dislike her.

Now, this situation of a husband —perhaps a good and faithful husband, being strongly attracted to another woman—is one that many married women have had to face in the past thirty years, and one that will recur from time to time in the years to come. Society doesn't censure him now as once it did, and the law, instead of holding him firmly to his marriage vows, amiably condones divorce. A few weeks in an amusing and pleasant western city and he is free, not responsible any more for the woman and children by whom he has been loved as husband and father for so many years.

Whatever the woman does under the circumstances, she loses. This is one of the times when she can't win. If she holds him he is restless and resentful. If she lets him go her life is too often ruined by the bitterness, the disillusionment, the loneliness, the general disturbance of the whole current of her days. Our social scheme today permits the man to feel himself acting quite honorably when he leaves the woman of whom he is tired and goes to the new love; and his discarded wife is only setting herself against the current when she protests.

But all the same she doesn't have to let him go if she doesn't want to. Nine times out of ten the smarter thing, the thing that makes for happiness in the end, is NOT to let him go. Ruth may know in her heart that Walter is making a fool of himself; that what he feels for Jane won't last; that Jane couldn't make him a good wife, or any man a good wife.

Ruth's course, if she wants to handle the whole thing intelligently, is to make home pleasanter than ever; to be always serene and patient; to bide her time. Her course is to make herself charming; not for Walter, for he won't see her at all for awhile, but on general principles. Her course is to keep herself busy, find work inside the house and out that interests her, that lifts her a little bit above the narrow circle of home. Ruth attracted Walter once against all comers; the most sacred hours of life are those associated with her; whether he marries Jane or doesn't the hour is going to come when he sees Ruth in the old light.

And then in a few years we have the very ordinary spectacle of a husband pretending that his passion for Jane was just warm friendship, forgetting completely that he asked Ruth to set him free, restored to the home circle and to his wife's affections.

But the wife has to get rid of the last shred of jealousy before she can succeed in this sort of campaign. She has to see the other woman's viewpoint to realize that all of us, all our lives long, are getting humiliating jolts and shocks; to say to herself that what happens to so many other women may well happen to her. She has to abandon all hope of recriminations and reproaches until the heat of the affair has long died away, and treat it as she would a fever. Such a wife can be reasonably sure of a successful ending; and what else matters? And when the skies are clear again she will have to refrain from triumph; this defection in her husband is no more serious than her own defects as a wife; if he has failed her signally in one way, she has failed him in a score of others. She has kept his life dull when it might have been exciting; she has slumped into disorder and inefficiency when the other woman has been always fresh and attractive.

Not that it is always Ruth's fault; this trial comes to even the most efficient, capable and loving of wives. Propinquity or chance will drag a man's affections from their legitimate anchor as long as men are men, as long as the other woman is the other woman. The law that sends a fatal germ into one mouth and spares a thousand others, that takes away one woman's only child while leaving another woman a safe and happy nursery of half a dozen children, that gives one little sister curly hair and another a talent for the violin, that burns one house and leaves its fellow standing, operates in this matter, too. Your husband may be one of the men who simply isn't going to be faithful; that may be your slice of the trouble of life.

Don't try to dodge it when it comes. Face it as you would sickness, poverty, war, with spirit and courage. Remember in the matter of your husband's affection, no woman takes anything away from you. You lost it before she found it. Only honesty and sweetness and sheer fineness of character can get it back.

THE PENSION ISSUE

By JIM FERGUSON

(Editor's note—This article is published as a news item and represents the personal views of Mr. Ferguson only.)

"The season has passed and the harvest is ended and there are souls yet unsaved." In a similar vein I am going to suggest that the Texas Legislature has adjourned and the members have gone home, and there are thousands of people over 65 years of age that were left off the pension rolls. In addition to this disappointment it is announced that 30,000 that have been on the pension rolls are to be cut off for lack of funds to pay the old people who have been receiving a small pitance.

It is contended by the state authorities that the federal government is complaining that the Texas pension roll is too large and for that reason further reduction in the Texas list of pensioners is in the making. It is regrettable that the legislature did not meet the pension problem in a statesmanlike manner. Its failure to do so now presents an issue that must be met in next year's campaign. Every candidate for Governor and Lieutenant Governor as well as every candidate for the legislature should be anxious to tell the people what they propose to do to pay the full pension of $15 a month which the people voted in last year's election.

No candidate should be allowed to duck or dodge the issue. It should be made an issue of pensions or part pension, for the constitution or against the constitution.

What the Federal government says or does should not in any way interfere with the state's obligation to pay the full $15.00 a month to all persons qualified under the constitutional amendment voted by the people. If the Federal government was to offer to pay $15.00 a month it would not relieve the state of its obligation to also pay $15.00 a month which the state is bound to pay.

There is no condition in the Texas constitution requiring the Texas pension to be reduced by whatever sum the Federal government may pay or wants to pay. The Texas constitution does provide that the state may accept and receive whatever amount for pensions that the Federal government may want to pay, but it does not permit the Texas pension to be reduced in any sum. Texas has fixed by a solemn vote of the people its own standard and amount of pension regardless of the Federal government.

Suppose the Federal government should say that it will not pay but $5.00 a month, (and I look for them to say it soon) would any sensible and fair minded person contend that the state has paid its just debt to the old people by paying them only $5.00 a month just because the Federal government was paying only that much?

Texas must paddle its own canoe, and, therefore, it must provide for the payment of $15.00 a month to all constitution qualified pensioners without red tape qualification. The battle is one. Boys, if you are with me, write me.

MERRY MAKERS WITH MR. AND MRS. H. O. CASSLE

On Thursday evening, June 24, the Merry Maker's Club met on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Cassle. Three games of eighty-four were played, the ladies winning high score.

A refreshment plate consisting of sherbert, cake and punch was served to Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wiar, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bury, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Stell, Dr. Joe McCrary, Mrs. D. O. Sauls, Mrs. Mart Farrow, and the host and hostess.

At a short business meeting the club voted to adjourn for the summer, and meet early in October with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Clements.

Miss Fannye Ruth Gillis, Miss Elvie Hodges and Mrs. Llera Drummond spent Sunday with Miss Mildred Tollison and her grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Williams, at Stamford. They were old friends, who used to live at Neinda.

POISON RATION

BEING FED JONES COUNTY

GRASSHOPPERS

Farmers matching pound for pound of bran to fight the hopping hordes.

One hundred and sixty thousand pounds of grasshopper poison will be spread on Jones County fields. This campaign begun Monday, June 28, according to County Agent, R. H. Maxwell.

Forty tons of bran to be distributed through the A. & M. Extension service and provided by the Federal Grasshopper Control Bureau arrived Tuesday along with poison for mixing with the bran.

Farmers will be required to contribute any amount of bran equal to that given out by the agent. Distribution is being made from the old Abilene-Southern Depot, one block north and one block west of Court House.

The bran and arsenite poison are required to be mixed and tagged at centralizing depot before delivering to the farmers. No bran will be distributed unless poison is mixed with it.

The County Agent recommends that farmers use black strap molasses and amyl acetate in making a mash of the poisoned bran, according to formula sent out in a letter to farmers this week.

Five pounds of bran should be used per acre, says Co. Agt. Maxwell. Usual practice is to treat a border around the edge of a field, rather than the whole area. Caution must be used in properly distributing poison mash to prevent loss of livestock and poultry.

Ten to fifteen thousand pounds of poison bran has been distributed says County Agent Maxwell, the first few days this week.

The generous cooperation of Geo. Williamson for the use of the building, D. W. Gray, city official and County Court and many others is greatly appreciated for the services rendered during this grasshopper campaign.

WHAT THE WOMEN ARE DOING

In writing of the improvement made in her clothes closet, Mrs. C. O. Carlton, bedroom demonstrator of the Tuxedo home demonstration club, writes:

"I papered my closet with ceiling paper, and this helped to make it much lighter. I placed a flashlight in my clothes closet so I could find things much more easily at night. I added a high shelf the length of the closet for storing winter bedding. I put two shelves in one end of the closet and under these, a rod for hanging dresses and coats. In the other end I added four shelves for storage; I made 3 hat-racks, a shoe rack, and undry bag."

At a cost of $11.35, a room which was formerly used as a smokehouse, was made into a very pleasant bedroom, by Mrs. M. W. Chambers, bedroom demonstrator of the Nienda home demonstration club.

Some of the improvements made by Mrs. Chambers are as follows: The room was papered, woodwork painted, new shades, curtains and bed clothes added. Besides the above she made a dressing table, re-finished her bed, and added a spring cover, a mattress cover and mattress pad.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

BLOOD POISONING

Is Caused through neglect of small wounds, cuts or scratches. "A Stitch In Time Saves Nine," says the proverb. This can never be applied to a better use than here, for truly a dressing in time saves hours of pain. No matter how trifling the injury, scratch, wound or cut, have it dressed immediately by the following methods:

1. Apply iodine to the wound freely.
2. Remove loose dirt or foreign bodies from the wound.
3. Wash the part with warm sterile water away from the wound in all directions, never toward the wound
4. Again apply iodine.
5. Apply sterile gauze dressing and covering bandage.

WARNING

1. Never touch the wound, cut or scratch with anything except iodine, a sterile dressing, a sterile instrument or sterile rubber gloves.
2. In bandaging, never apply absorbent cotton directly to an open cut.
3. Keep your Medicine Chest completely stocked—you never know what may be required in a hurry.

It is not intended that the above advice shall take the place of a doctor's services or instructions, nor make it unnecessary to visit one.

NOW FOR A HAPPY HOLIDAY

The "Glorious Fourth" can be just as glorious as we choose to make it. This year the long week-end created by the holiday will intensify the hazards which the Fourth always produces. The watchword should be, "Take care."

Independence Day celebrates the independence of a nation. The coming week-end will demonstrate vividly the modern independence of people. Great streams of traffic pouring over the highways will show how essential are mutual regard and courtesy among drivers. Fireworks will demonstrate it too. A "fire-cracker thrown by another" is, according to the National Conservation Bureau, the greatest single cause of the tremendous number of fireworks accidents every Fourth of July.

At the beaches and lakes imprudent swimmers will again remind us that human life must be risked to save the life of a drowning person.

Reasonable care divides a happy holiday from the tragedies which mar it. Reasonable care will insure you, your family, and the other fellow against mishap. For instance:

If you drive—see that your car is in good mechanical condition. Check tires, lights, brakes, steering mechanism, windshield wiper, rear-view mirror, horn. Drive skillfully, at a reasonable speed. Observe the rules and courtesies of the road.

If you must use fireworks—give yourself plenty of space. Keep away from children and animals and buildings. Throw firecrackers away from people and inflammable materials, not at them. Never hold an exploding cracker, nor set them off under a bottle or can.

Cauterize the smallest wound immediately—tetanus poisoning works fast and kills.

If you go swimming—swim in safe and protected places. Beware of strong tides and currents. Know your limits as a swimmer. Wait two hours after eating. Avoid shallow places.

RADIO STARS ARE FREE EXPOSITION ATTRACTION

Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, premier radio entertainers of America by popular vote during the past three years, will be a free entertainment attraction at the Pan American Exposition in Dallas-Saturday, Sunday and Monday, July 3, 4 and 5. They will be supported by a hundred radio musicians and artists. The show will be in the Cotton Bowl with 50,000 free seats available.
